Our yearbook represents the history of one year at Horn Lake High School - 1975-1976. During this year our attentions were focused on another aspect of history - the origins of our country, commemorated by our nationwide Bicentennial celebration. In honor of America's 200th year, we proudly present this yearbook as Horn Lake's official Bicentennial document - with hopes that its papers will make you want to celebrate -

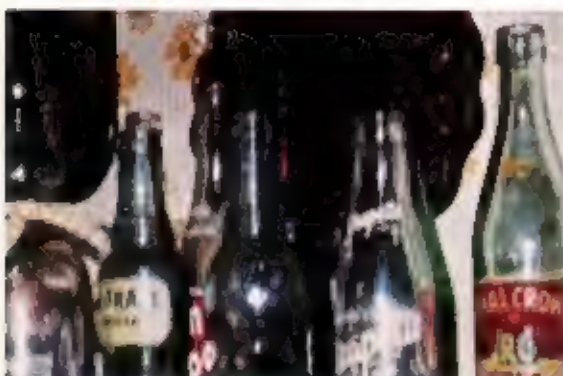

AMERICA . . .

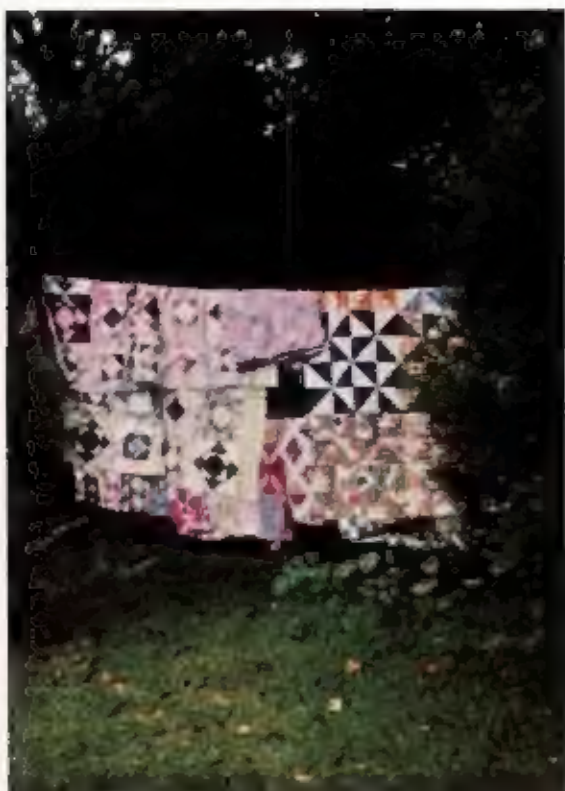

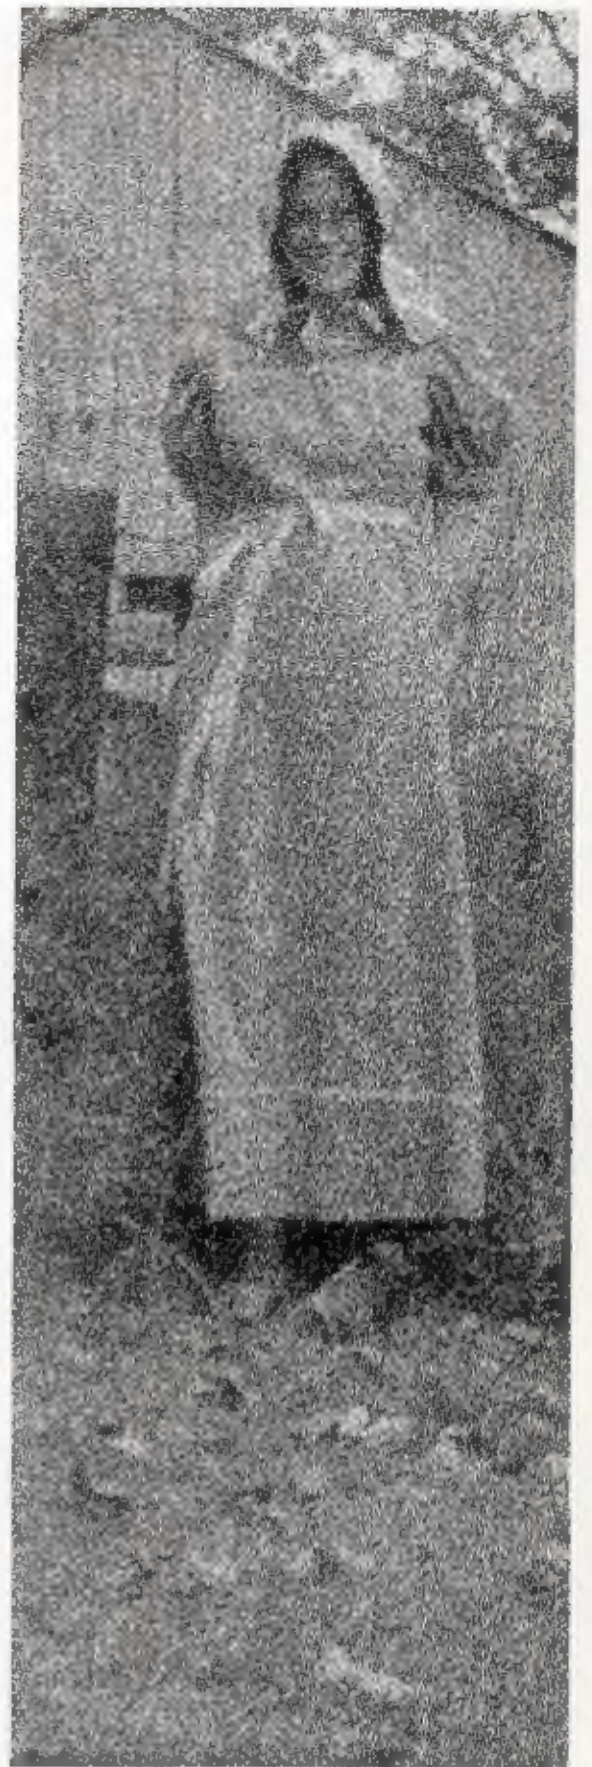

PAST and PRESENT

"God Bless America . . . Land That I Love"

Take a good look around you. Everywhere, signs of America's beginning appear. The sights and sounds of 1776 are silent, but reminders of them are everywhere - reminders that call to mind America's strength, valor, and the pioneer spirit that has made us great.

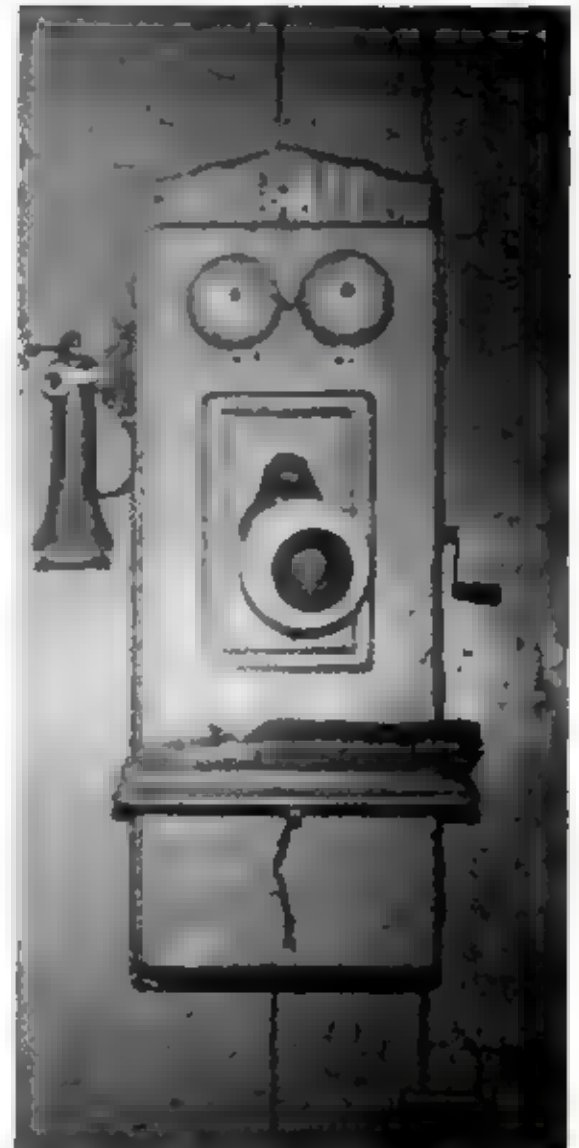

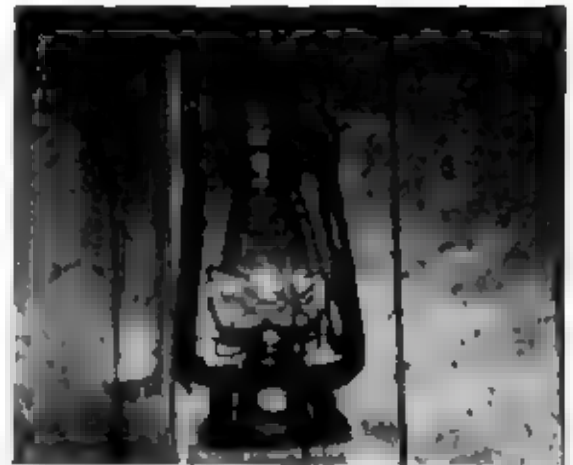

"To Secure the Blessings of Liberty to Ourselves and Our Posterity . . ."

Relics of the past linger through the present reminding us of our heritage.

So Proudly We Hail . . .

She represents the highest standards of American goals. She is dedicated to helping and inspiring her students. She provides a loving home atmosphere for her family. She exhibits Christian thoughts and actions in every area of her life. For her continuing efforts toward improving the home life of her students, and the Christian ideals of the people around her, we proudly dedicate the 1976 yearbook to Mrs. Mary Ann Arnold.

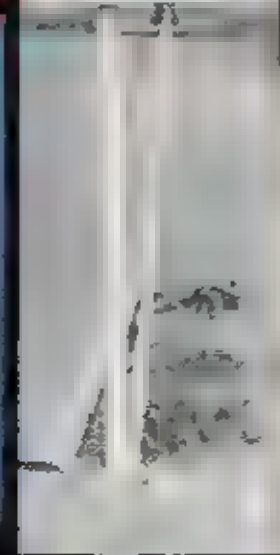

"I wish that the bald eagle had not been chosen as the representative of our country
. . . he is a bird of bad moral character; like
. . . men who live by sharpening and robbing, he is generally poor and often very lousy. The turkey is a much more respectable bird."

Benjamin Franklin

The eagle has been successful,

It has become synonymous with America.

Pursuit of Happiness

The Evolution of America

We the people . . . everchanging . . . but everlasting. No matter that our forefathers' "Great American Dream" has never completely been fulfilled - few dreams ever are. What's important is that we have this dream as our goal - and that we continue striving to attain it.

On July 4, 1776, the United States of America declared herself free and independent from her mother country, England. From that day forward Americans strived to set before the world a new standard of government, one which guaranteed freedom and equality to all mankind. Their efforts were successful, for even now, two hundred years later, this government prevails.

America's Bicentennial celebration is a time to reflect upon our nation's past. It is a time to recall the courageous actions of those who dedicated their lives to the growth and development of America. We, as Americans, can be proud of our country's heritage and of her accomplishments.

Though this bicentennial year is a time to reflect upon our nation's history, it is a time for rededication — a time to look toward the future. Let us strive to conquer our evils and weaknesses, magnifying day by day the good that lives in every man. Let us seek not for that which divides us, but rather for that which unites us. Let us seek for supreme guidance as we plan for the future. Above all, let us pray that the true "Spirit of '76" — its hope, its loyalty, its joy, and its freedom — may live forever in us.

Kathy Epps

"Genius is one percent inspiration and ninety-nine percent perspiration."

Thomas
Alva Edison

Americans are noted world-wide for their determination in pursuing and attaining their goals, often at great cost to themselves. Horn Lake students are a proof rather than an exception to this statement. In all contests or challenges, students of HLHS are willing to make personal sacrifices to complete their designed tasks.

"All mankind is divided into three classes: those who are immoveable, those who are moveable, and those who move."
Benjamin Franklin

Are you apathetic? Do you simply not care? If so, you're in a small minority. Horn Lake people are movers and doers. They accept their responsibilities and carry them out to the last measure. Clubs, assemblies, pep rallies, duties - Horn Lake people are involved.

Horn Lake — The Way We Were

Horn Lake High School has a long tradition as an established educational institution, located on its present site for many years.

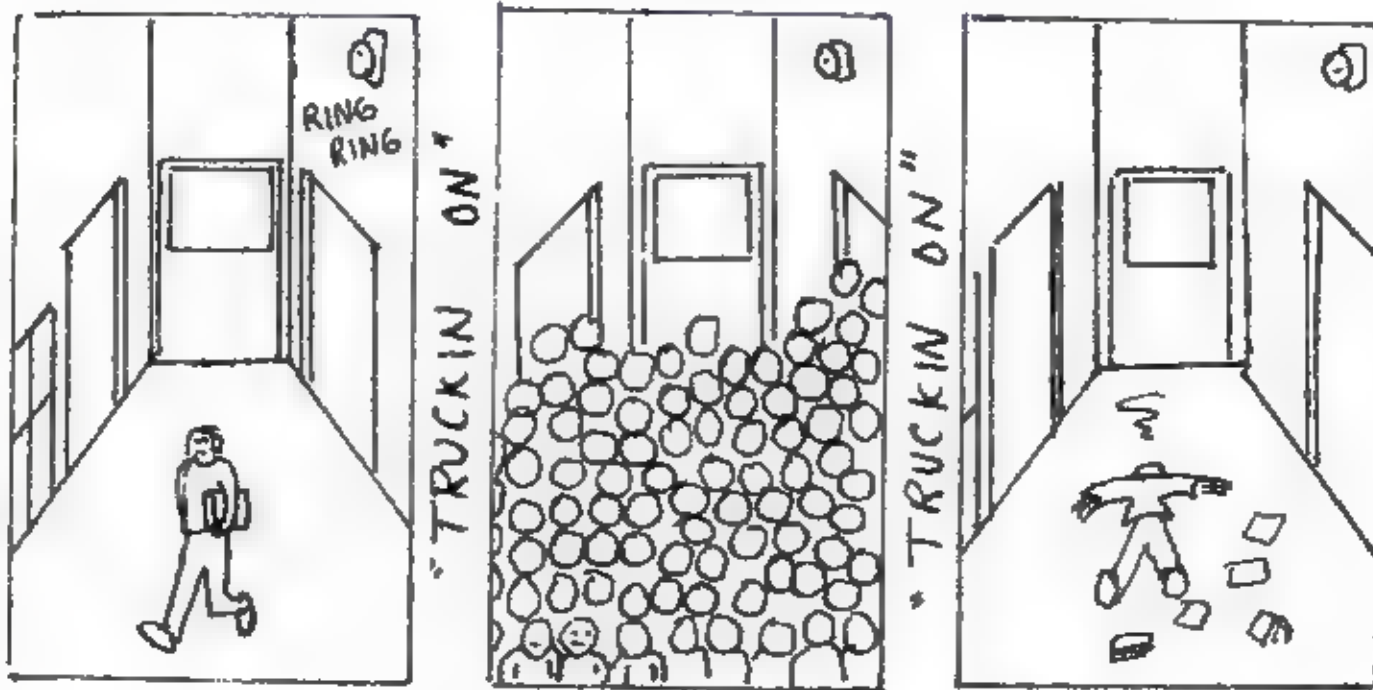

The building which was the longest-lasting was the Elementary building, built in 1923 after a fire destroyed the existing school. It remained in use until its destruction by a tornado in 1973.

THIS PAGE, TOP: In 1916, students traveled to Horn Lake School by horse-drawn "wagonettes." Drivers are pictured here after delivering students to their schoolroom door. Athletics

Sports have always been a tradition in America, beginning with the track and field events which were a popular pastime of the colonists and early American settlers. Football, basketball, and baseball developed later in America and have become popular sports in other parts of the world as well. Horn Lake students prove their interest in athletics with team sports and organized physical education, with back yard games of free-for-all football or basketball, or by providing an audience of cheering Eagle fans for school team efforts. An outstanding coaching staff leads Horn Lake athletics. Every year students at Horn Lake prove that sports are indeed an American way of life.

Football '75-'76

Although the Eagles saw defeat on several games, the 1975-76 season provided valuable experience for a team composed mainly of juniors. The Eagles did have the thrill of defeating a team from Memphis which they had been unable to defeat during the previous two seasons. Looking forward to 1975-76, the Eagles' team will have many seniors who have played together for three years and who have gained much experience from this year's action on the field. Coaching staff this year included Coach Malone, Coach Ross, and Coach McCully.

Coach Thomas Malone accents training for the "interior" as well as the "exterior" of an athlete. "Everybody likes to win," says Coach Malone, "and this is what outsiders look for. I look for inside training - what kind of citizen a person will be. A good citizen puts God first, his fellow man second, and himself third - and a team should be the same way." Coach Malone would like to see a definite weight program and more off-season training at Horn Lake to help eliminate injuries, which were a problem to the squad this year. Of the season, he says, "We learned from the season. It made the athletes who will be back next year more dedicated." One thing is sure - no matter what the score, the Eagles are always winners.

Between an initial loss to North Panola and concluding loss to Oxford, the Eagles had a winning record. In games played against Desoto County revils the record was 6-2. Four of the top eight players from last year returned to the team, and the experience of the returning players led to many victories in the early part of the season. Some weaknesses developed as the season progressed. Especially evident was lack of height and inability to hit the outside shot. In every game the Eagles played against opponents who had an advantage in height, but they always provided tough competition.

The Eaglettes began the season with two main goals - to improve on last year's record and to go to the state tournament. Losing four of the top seven players from last year gave the team a lack of experienced starters, and lack of speed also proved a weakness. Height, however, was a strong point of the '75-'76 Eaglettes, and they used this factor to their advantage in several games. With the season almost at an end the first goal has been accomplished - and the second is a strong possibility. Led by Coach Gaylon Baird, who was chosen Chickasaw Conference Coach of the Year, the Eaglettes have continued the winning tradition of Horn Lake basketball.

1975 Track Teams

Both of Horn Lake's 1975 track teams showed outstanding performances in the meets they attended. The boys' team placed second in the Chickasaw meet and in District competition, with the high hurdles race their strongest point. The girls placed third in the Horn Lake and Chickasaw meets, and second in the District. Elsie Lipford, Ann Holloway, Lajuana Bates, and Pam Morton went on to the North Mississippi meet.

Spectators Are Part of the Action

The athletes themselves are the main focus of attention in any athletic contest. But any athlete who has appeared before a crowd will testify what a tremendous influence a sympathetic or hostile crowd can have on the outcome of the game. For any event, Horn Lake people are on hand in force to urge their team to victory. If you're "ONLY" a spectator, next time consider yourself a vital part of the game.

Promising Season for Baseball '76

The '74-'75 season was a disappointing one for players and coaches, with many games lost by only one or two points. Pitching and infield play were Horn Lake's strongest points. With most of the team returning for the '76 season, hopes are high for a greatly improved team and win record. An added boost to team morale and skill is the fact that all team members have played baseball together since 9th grade.

Organizations

Given a chance to expand interests and pleasures, individuals were able to join various H.L.S. clubs to further their skills and social development. Helping to better the individual, school, and community, clubs provided worthwhile activities for everyone. The thirteen different clubs offered students a chance to explore special interests.

Challenge Staff Has the Spirit of '76

We the members of the Challenge, in Order to form a more perfect School, establish school spirit, insure peace among students, protect the teachers, promote the cause of the Student Council, and secure the Blessings of Remembrance for ourselves and our fellow students, do ordain and establish this annual for the students at Horn Lake High School.

"In Order to Provide a More Perfect Union"

Whether they were making treaties with the Indians or meeting as a Continental Congress, the colonists developed skill at diplomacy in face-to-face confrontations of parties with often very opposite views. In democratic fashion, ideas from the masses were passed on to governing bodies for action.

Similarly, the Student Council at HLS has worked together with the student body and the administration in order to improve school problems and activities. The Student Council sponsored a Thanksgiving Day Fair in order to raise money for needy families. They provided a suggestion day for the students and promoted devotions in the mornings. The Student Council, sponsored by Mrs. Benvenuto, worked together to provide better surroundings for everyone at HLS.

"To Insure 'Scholastic' Tranquility"

Many of the colonial leaders had qualities of great leadership, outstanding character and the ability to make important achievements. One such person was Thomas Jefferson, an intellectual leader of the colonies, whose achievements included the authorship of the Declaration of Independence.

Today the Beta Club of H.L.S. is very active in promoting the ideals of honesty, service, and leadership among high school students of America. The Horn Lake Beta Club raised over $300 for the Hemophilia Drive and sponsored a float which they designed and built in the Christmas Parade. They worked the concession stand at basketball games to raise money for the State Beta Convention in February. Their plans include the formation of a Junior High Beta Club.

"Hear Ye — Hear Ye!"

The first newspapers were very important in colonial days. They provided the only source of news of any kind in the colonial days. The first successful newspaper in the colonies was the BOSTON NEWSLETTER of 1704. Today our EAGLE TALK newspaper has been very successful on the Horn Lake campus. With the '75-'76 EAGLE TALK staff working together, they changed the image of the school paper. Being smaller and less expensive, the newspaper was completely produced and printed on the Horn Lake campus, with the help of Mrs. Sara Shaw.

“The Hand That Rocks the Cradle Is the Hand That Rules the World”

Every colonial girl, from the time she could walk, was trained in the skills of housekeeping. The labor of the colonial housewife was backbreaking drudgery. In a frontier settlement, housekeeping was only a part of her duties. She helped clear land and plant crops. Even if she lived in a village of snug, comfortable houses, her daily tasks filled every hour from sunrise to sunset.

Today our Future Homemakers of America are trying to help individuals improve personal, family and community living. Horn Lake's FHA is trying to make life less complicated than that of colonial days. With the help of 32 members, the FHA plans a Teacher Appreciation Day and a Spring Banquet. They also gave food and clothing to needy families in the Horn Lake Area.

i Cumpleaños Feliz, Norteamericanos! (Happy Birthday, America)

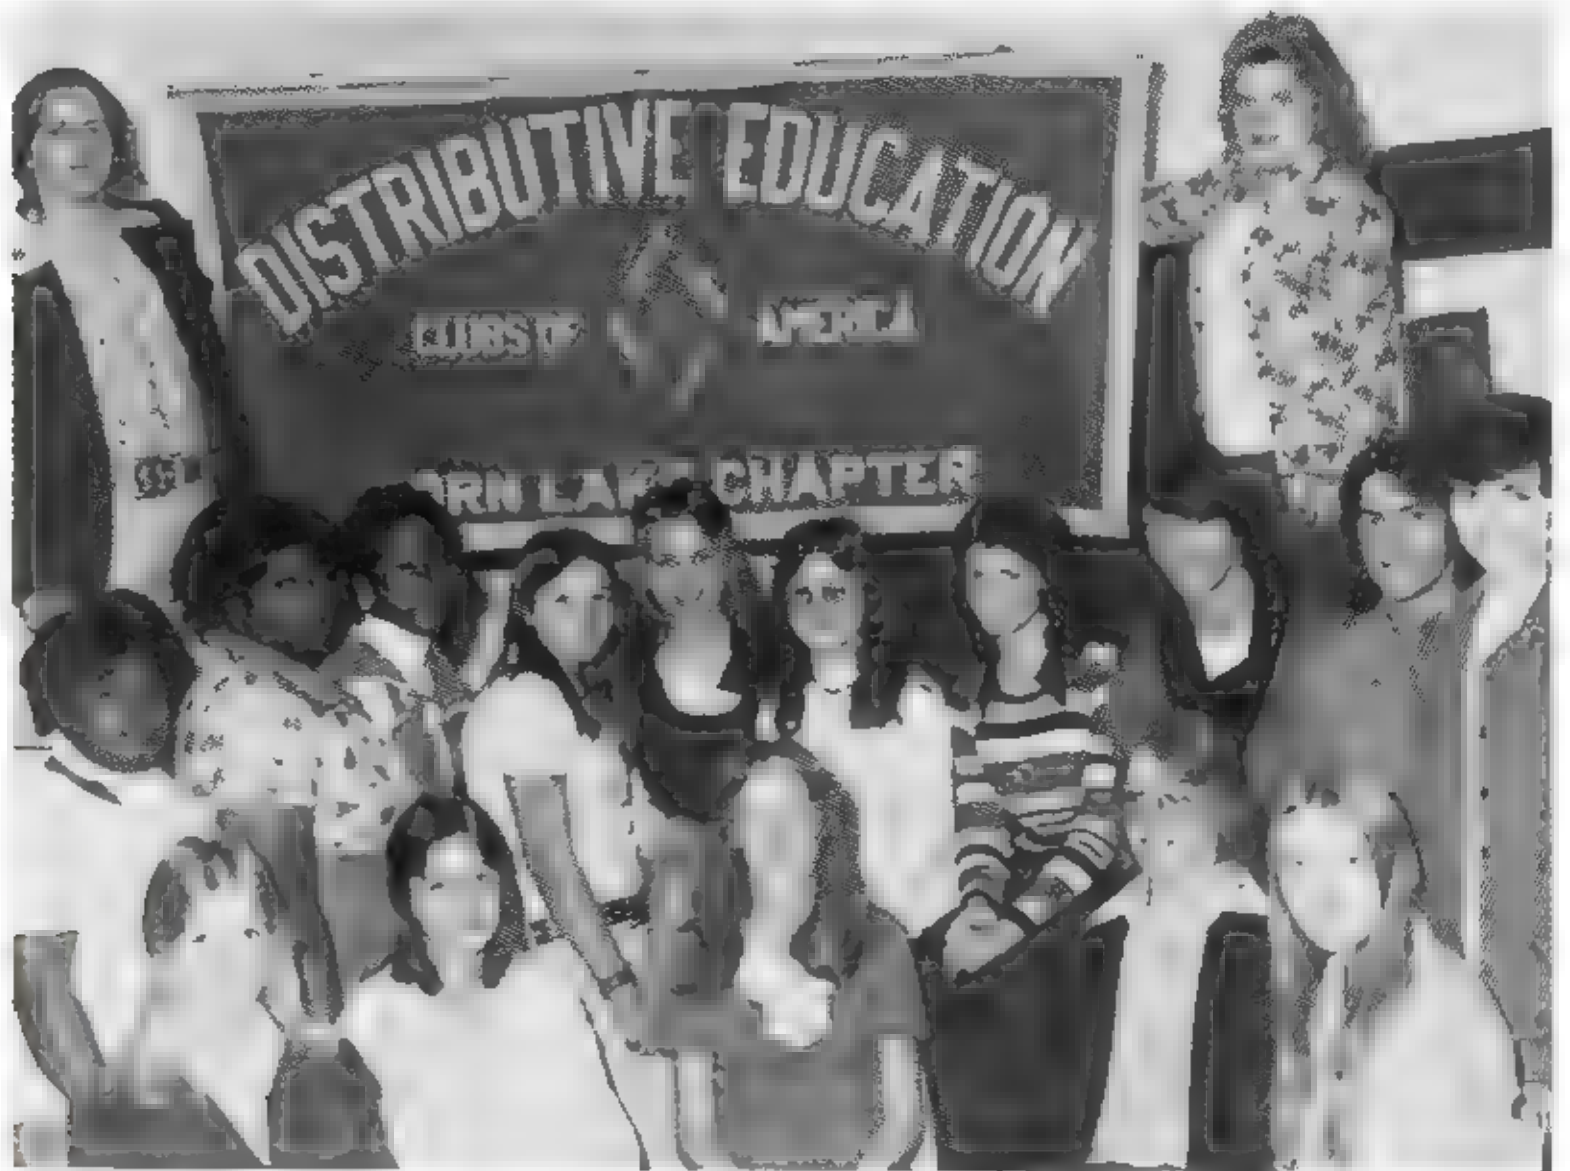

One master mariner of the fifteenth century thought that he could find a western passage to the Indies and the Orient. He failed to find this passage, but he made even greater history by discovering America. Sailing for Spain, Christopher Columbus established an early foothold for the Spanish exploration of the southern and western United States.

Horn Lake's Spanish Club provides an opportunity for students to learn the "fun" customs of the Spaniards. The 34 members of the Spanish Club plan a fund-raising project and an awards banquet honoring members who have shown academic excellence or leadership. Each spring, five representatives from the Spanish Club enter the National Spanish Contest sponsored by the American Association of Teachers of Spanish and Portuguese.

“Don’t Sell America Short.”

Wall Street was the heart of the business and financial district of America even during the colonial times. It took its name from a mud wall that was constructed by an early Dutch governor of New York to keep the Indians out and the cows in.

Today’s Distributive Education Clubs of America teach students about business practices in the field of distribution. Led by Miss Briscoe and Mrs. Rodman, the Horn Lake DECA members worked part time in the concession stand at break and lunch. They competed in district competition in February and state competition in April.

"The Business of America is Business"

The colonial military used only male secretaries and aides to keep up with the "business" of running an army - but colonial women were often salaried employees where workers were in short supply. Today business relies on the efforts of both sexes, and opportunities abound for men and women in the business world.

The Future Business Leaders of America develops competent aggressive business leadership and interest in business occupations among young men and women Horn Lake FBLA, sponsored by Mrs. Sara Shaw, works in the concession stand during break and lunch. Members will attend the state convention in Oxford at Ole Miss in February.

"Of Thee I Sing"

From the very beginning music gave pleasure to the colonists, even though it came only from jew's harps or the folk songs they remembered from the Old World. All young ladies and most young gentlemen were expected to learn to play an instrument or sing with skill. George Washington played a flute and Thomas Jefferson a violoncello. Singing and music societies grew to be the favorite form of entertainment.

Horn Lake's large high school chorus provides entertainment for programs and enjoys just singing together. From the large chorus comes many talented ensembles such as quartets, soloists, and the glee club. The chorus plans to participate in the District Festival.

The Junior High Chorus hopes to be the nucleus for a good high school program in the future. They hope to learn more about music and to grow musically during their high school years.

"His Truth is Marching On

As America grew, the citizens of almost every town took special pride in organizing a local band. It was once a common practice for employers to advertise for workmen who play a band instrument. From the beginning, the development of bands have improved.

This year we take great pride in the Horn Lake High School Marching Band. The band provides an outlet for musically talented young people; musical enjoyment for the student body, parents, and community. Members of the band are involved in solo-ensemble competition, District and State Band Clinics, State Band Festival and many local activities including parades, shows and concerts.

The Junior High Band provides an outlet for talented junior high students. They hope to be the great Horn Lake High School Marching Band of tomorrow.

Drug Council

The Drug Council, consisting of sixteen members, had a very good year. Their activities included special training on drug abuse, teaching younger students, judging the "Drug Poster Contest," and providing literature on drugs. Their future plans include citizenship awards to active members of the club. The Drug Council hopes to continue its drug counseling in order to help more young people.

The newly organized chess club had its beginning this year. Sponsored by Miss Von Hofe, the Chess Club consists of fifteen to twenty members. Their purpose in forming is to learn how to play chess and to meet together for organized chess matches. They hope to continue the development of the Chess Club in the future years.

If There Were Never Any Problems . . . I Wouldn't Have a Job . . .

If we compared Horn Lake to an ocean liner, the students would represent the passengers, the staff the crew, and the administration would certainly be the officers. Their job is to keep our school on a steady course, working out problems with students, parents, and teachers. Making the large and small decisions that will affect our school life is the responsibility which occupies much of their time.

Mr. Caldwell, Area Principal, states his views about Horn Lake's growth. "Horn Lake is in a developing stage. We hope to expand more areas in curriculum and extra-curricular activities, and we have the nucleus right now to do this. I have great expectations in all the curricular fields." Mr. Caldwell enjoys the rewards of working with people on a professional level and setting up programs that will help students in the future.

Mr. Upchurch talks about Horn Lake students: "I wish we could have more school spirit from the entire student body. One of the best qualities of Horn Lake students is the willingness of the majority to cooperate. In general, they are good students. I would stack them up against students of any other school." One regret of Mr. Upchurch is that most of his time with students is spent with troubled or problem students. He misses the association with high-achievers that he had as a classroom teacher.

Mr. Johnston also emphasizes the need for a higher quality of school spirit at Horn Lake, but he feels that "Most students are the greatest, and 99% of them can be reached if the effort is put forth." The role of the teacher or administrator is a demanding one, especially in the field of student-faculty relations. Mr. Johnston observes: "I found that I had a love for every student I came in contact with. When students would come to me looking for advice, comfort, or just a friend to talk with, I found that there's more to teaching than just reading, writing, and arithmetic."

Talents of Secretaries and Counselors Include Listening Abilities

Every day the behind-the-scenes work of the office staff and counselors affect each of us, from administration to faculty to students.

As Area Secretary, Mrs. Thomas must coordinate all the business of the schools in the Horn Lake area. To keep records and reports for several schools is no simple task, but Mrs. Thomas' efficiency and interest in her job combine with her graciousness to make her loved and respected by all who know her.

Mrs. Mooneyham and Mrs. Rasco prove daily that it takes hard work to keep the business end of our school flowing smoothly. Typing absentee lists, activity schedules, and letters, filling out reports, sending out SOS calls to substitute teachers, filling out reports, tracking down students, ordering supplies, filling out reports - these are just a few of their daily duties. Keeping to a minimum the wave of people and problems that crowd the office each day is their specialty - and smiles are their trademark.

Patience in abundance, a host of helpful suggestions, and a talent for organization are characteristics that a counselor must have. Mrs. Hyde spends much of her day working with seniors and juniors, checking credits and helping them to finalize plans for college or career. In her opinions, participation of Horn Lake students in the counseling process is "A One Plus." "My most difficult problem is trying to convince a student who wants to drop out why he should stay in school," Mrs. Hyde reports. "One of the most rewarding aspects of my work is to see a student who has had difficult problems in school make a success."

Mr. Grayson would like to see more group conferences and more activities for junior high students. His counseling technique includes careful and active listening to whatever problem a student wants to share. "I listen and try to help the student face facts," says Mr. Grayson. "I must be helping - because they keep coming back."

School Staff Keeps Us Warm, Happy, and Safe

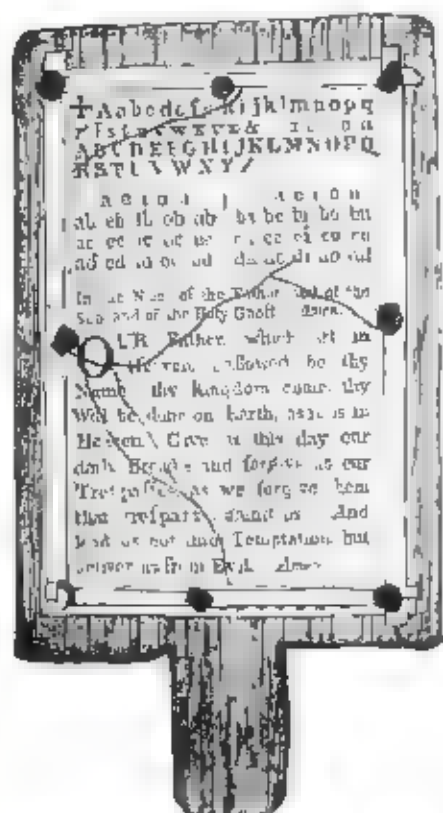

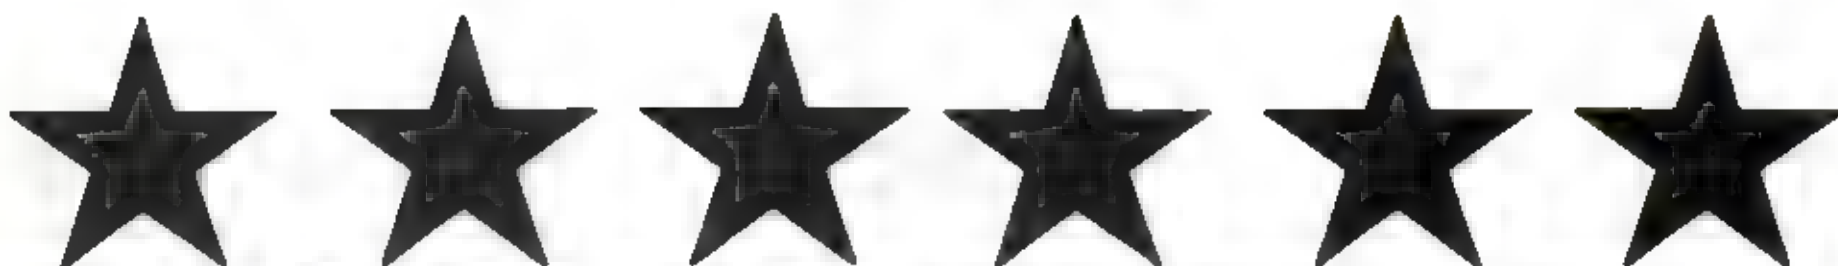

Other people at school are working to make sure that students' time spent on campus is spent in an atmosphere that is clean and healthy. The cafeteria staff works hard to provide nutritious and tasty meals for all students, realizing that it's hard to study when you're hungry! Their work is calculated to keep us feeling full and satisfied with good-for-you kinds of food. Mr. Brown and his staff are constantly busy trying to keep things around campus clean and in good repair - a job which would be greatly benefited by more student clean-up effort. Teacher aides Mrs. Little and Mrs. Garnett work with students who need individual help with their studies. They realize that there is nothing more rewarding for a student than to be able to say, "I can do this!" That feeling of accomplishment is what they try to give each student. We may not give these helpers the recognition they deserve - but we'd be awfully cold, hungry and miserable if they weren't around.

Junior High — What Is It?

A beginning . . . a chance to meet people, start an athletic career, grow as individuals . . . A time of transition from the past and the children we were to the future and the adults we will become . . . Confusion, marked with important lessons of life . . . Decisions that will form the basis of that life.
